San Jose, CA – BCA Architects is soon to be the newest tenant at 111 Market Square, a recently modernized, contemporary office complex in downtown San Jose. Tenant improvements are underway at the architectural firm’s 3,860 square foot suite in the North Tower at 111 N. Market Street and are planned to be completed this December.

After occupying a building at 505 S. Market Street for a little over a decade, the firm is relocating its headquarters to the trendy San Pedro Square area to offer additional amenities to staff and better align with the company’s brand. “BCA continues to grow with our new space in San Jose, our successful office in Sacramento, as well as our near-term expansion in Irvine,” commented Brian Whitmore, AIA, LEED® AP, BCA Architects’ President. “We are particularly excited to partner with Ridge Capital Investors on this new investment in the South Bay, and look forward to more partnerships with commercial partners in the region, just as we have partnered with educators for the past 30 years.”

Agility, work-life balance, growth and stability are tenants of BCA Architects’ culture and will be embodied in the new space.

Relocating to a new office will allow BCA Architects’ team members to continue to provide the same innovative design solutions, value added services and abilities to listen and deliver on clients’ aspirations that they have come to know and appreciate from the firm.

Dave Karol, Principal at Ridge Capital Investors, remarked, “We’re excited to have BCA Architects join us as one of our new tenants at 111 Market Square.” Market Square has been recently renovated, including new building systems, new ground-level retail, contemporary lobbies and shared conferencing spaces, a state-of-the-art fitness lab, bicycle storage and outdoor courtyard with complimentary Wi-Fi. Nearby amenities include popular restaurants, retail shops, public transportation and the SAP Center, or “The Shark Tank,” home of the San Jose Sharks NHL team.
